JUDGMENTS

Case Name

Antigua Aggregates Limited v The Attorney General et al
[HCVAP 2009/003] (Antigua and Barbuda)

Appearances:

Appellant: Mr. Thaddeus Antoine holding papers for Mr. Hugh C. Marshall Jr.

Respondents: Mrs. Georgis Taylor-Alexander, Solicitor General holding papers for The Attorney General of Antigua and Barbuda, the First Respondent
Ms. Eugenia Dickson holding papers for Antigua Commercial Bank Limited, the Second Respondent

Issues:

Civil Appeal – Land Law – removal of restriction – whether application to be made to the Registrar of Lands or directly to the court – basis for removal of restriction - mandatory injunction – least risk of injustice Mortgage claim CPR Part 66 - claim for an account from chargee – whether mortgagee should be restrained from exercising power of sale – whether chargor should be permitted to sell charged property without chargee's consent - whether there was a serious issue to be tried – adequacy of damages – balance of convenience – fetter of right of redemption – sections 67, 68 and 134 of the Registered Land Act Cap. 374 of the Revised Laws of Antigua and Barbuda (RLA)

Result:

The appeal was dismissed with costs to the Respondents.

Reason:

Delivered by George-Creque J.A.

- 1. Section 134(1) of the RLA deals with the circumstances in which any person (other than the proprietor) interested in the land may apply to the Registrar for removal or variation of a restriction. Section 134(2) of the RLA however gives a free standing right to a registered proprietor to apply directly to the court for such removal or variation. The appellant, being the registered proprietor, was competent to invoke the court's jurisdiction in seeking removal of the restriction. The trial judge accordingly erred in holding that the court lacked jurisdiction to entertain the application on the basis that the procedure laid down was for application to first be made to the Registrar of Lands.

2. No notice of the application was given to the Registrar of Lands as required by section 134(2) of the RLA. This lack of notice coupled with the fact that removal of the restriction was sought by way of interlocutory proceedings prevented a proper ventilation of the matter by way of a full trial on the merits. In essence, the appellant sought a final remedy by way of interlocutory proceedings which was wholly inappropriate. The learned judge accordingly properly refused the application.
3. Having regard to the purpose for which the restriction was placed on the Property, the three year delay before any step was taken by the appellant to remove the restriction and the reason now being advanced for its removal, the learned judge quite rightly determined that the least risk of injustice in the particular circumstances favoured the court declining to order the removal of the restriction. Zockoll Group Ltd. v Mercury Communications Ltd. (No. 1) [1998] FSR 354 applied.
4. Further, as the learned judge rightly found, it had not been shown that the restriction had been improperly placed or by inference, that there was a change of circumstances since the placement of the restriction. The fact that the appellant chose to enter into an agreement for sale of the Property some 3 years later, despite the restriction thereon and the bank charges, does not equate to a change of circumstances. Christopher and DeCastro (Executor for O Flax) v The Registrar of Lands and The Attorney General BVIHCV 2002/0200 followed.
5. The fact that the appellant required an accounting from the Bank in terms of what was owed to the Bank did not give rise to an issue as to whether or not the Bank was entitled to exercise its power of sale. In essence, the appellant did not show how sale of the Property by the Bank in the exercise of its power of sale infringed any right of the appellant as chargor as it related to its entitlement to an accounting. The exercise of the power of sale does not hamper, diminish or infringe the appellant's right to an accounting from the Bank. The learned judge accordingly did not err in finding that there was no serious issue to be tried.
6. The learned judge did not err in holding that damages would be an adequate remedy or that the balance of convenience lay in favour of the Bank.
7. Having regard to the instruments of charge and sections 67(g) and 68 of the RLA, the learned judge correctly found that the appellant had no right to sell the Property and thereby fetter the chargee's (the Bank's) rights.

Case Name

Citco Global Custody NV v Y2K Finance Inc.
[HCVAP 20009/002] (Territory of the Virgin Islands)

Appearances:

Appellant: Ms. Eugenia Dickson holding papers for Mr. Simon Browne-Wilkinson, QC
Respondent: Mr. David duBoulay holding papers for Ms. Barbara Dohmann, QC

Issues:	Civil Appeal - whether judge applied correct principles for striking out amended statement of case under CPR26.3(1)(b) - assumption that facts stated in the pleadings are true - whether test for summary judgment under CPR 15.2 applicable - whether pleadings sufficiently disclosed that one of the claimants was beneficial owner of shares - whether judge erred in striking out the claimant who was beneficial owner of shares as having no locus standi to pursue a claim under section 1841 - whether pleadings disclose reasonable grounds for bringing unfair prejudice claim under section 1841 of the BVI Business Companies Act - whether the rule against reflective loss imposes a bar to the relief sought in paragraph 2 of the prayer - statutory interpretation of section 1841 - court's discretion to make different types of orders under section 1841 - whether judge erred in striking out paragraph 2 of the relief sought.
Result:	The appeal was allowed, the counter-notice dismissed and the order of the learned judge made on 4 th November, 2008, set aside. It was further ordered that the matter be remitted to the court below for case management and a trial date to be set; and that costs be awarded to the appellant in the court below to be agreed or otherwise assessed and costs in the appeal which is to be 2/3 of the costs below pursuant to CPR 65.13(b).
Reason:	Delivered by Edwards J.A. 1. The application to strike out was obviously an application under CPR 26.3(1)(b) and the learned judge would be obliged to assume that the facts alleged in the amended statement of claim were true and she would not be entitled to make use of the powers contained in CPR 15.2 in the absence of any application for summary judgment before her. The summary judgment test - whether the claimants had any real prospect of succeeding on the claim was not an option in considering the respondent's application to strike out the amended statement of claim. Morgan Crucible Co. plc v Hill Samuel & Co. Ltd [1991] Ch 295; Swain v Hillman and another [2001] 1 All E.R. 91 followed. 2. That the judge erroneously concluded that the claimants had the burden to prove that the appellant was the nominee of Headstart, and she failed to apply the correct test and consider whether the relevant pleaded facts were primary facts or inferences. Paragraphs 2 and 13 of the amended statement of claim contain primary facts which should be taken at face value to be true for the purposes of the application and the judge erred in striking out Headstart as a claimant. Diamantis Diamantides v JP Morgan Chase Bank [2005] EWCA Civ. 1612 at paragraph 23 to 26 followed and distinguished. 3. An accurate summary of the case for the claimants as pleaded in paragraph 21 of the amended statement of claim is that by making certain redemptions in breach of its Memorandum and Articles of Association, Y2K's actions were unfairly prejudicial to the interests of the appellant, whose interests for these purposes include the interests of Headstart on whose behalf it holds the shares in Y2K; and had the judge applied the correct principles in considering the application, she should have concluded that the appellant and Headstart had pleaded reasonable grounds for bringing the claim. The learned judge therefore erred in striking out the claim brought by Headstart and Citco for the reasons that she gave. 4. Having regard to the law on reflective loss and the relief prescribed in section 1841(2)(a) to (h) of the BVI Business Companies Act any decision of the court as to whether to grant relief under paragraph 2 of the prayer in the amended statement of claim depends on the view that a court will take of the appellant's case in light of the pleaded facts, the evidence and law; and the learned trial judge therefore acted prematurely and unreasonably in striking out paragraph 2 of the prayer. Atlas Ltd & Others v Brightview & Others [2004] BCC 542 at paras. 58 – 63 considered and followed.

Issue: Application for leave to file Notice of Appeal, Application for extension of time to file Notice of Appeal and relief from sanction

Result: The applications were dismissed with costs to the respondent to this application in the sum of $4,000.00

Reason: The Court held that the applicant had not met the conditions under CPR 26.8. Having regard to the lateness of the application (one year) and the fact that adherence to the order was initially contemplated and a deliberate decision was taken not to appeal, the application must fail. Dominica Agricultural and Industrial Development Bank v Mavis Williams Civil Appeal No. 20 of 2005 followed. The Court was further satisfied that there was no prejudice to the applicant and was of the view that any necessary “clarification” of the order should have been sought from the court below. The Court observed further that if subsequent orders were in contention, those orders, and not the 8th November order, should have been appealed.

Result: The application was dismissed, the decision of the single judge affirmed and the matter remitted to the High Court to be continued. Costs to the respondent in the sum of $2000.00.

Reason:

1. ‘Changes to Statements of Case’ in Part 20 refer to substantial changes, not as in this case, where changes are made to correct a misnomer (an incorrect name). Part 20 does not apply.

Issue: Preliminary issue – whether there is an appeal before the court as Record of Appeal and skeleton arguments filed out of time with no application for extension of time or relief from sanction

Result: It was ordered that:
1. The oral application made on behalf of the respondent is dismissed.

3. The parties shall agree additional material to be included in the Record of Appeal by Friday 30th October, 2009.

Reason:

1. The respondent's oral application was dismissed on the grounds that:
 - (i) notice of application must be given as required by CPR62.9(b);
 - (ii) an application must be made in writing and supported by an affidavit. Parties are estopped from raising preliminary issues at trial.
 - (iii) failure to file skeleton arguments is not fatal as established in previous decisions of the Court (See. Craig Reeves v Platinum Trading Management Ltd. HCVAP 2007/022 (delivered 25 February, 2008)).
2. The matter was adjourned to allow corrections to be made to the Record of Appeal.

Issue:

Application for leave to appeal to Her Majesty in Council against decision of the full Court dismissing appeal against decision of single judge on a procedural appeal

Result:

The application was dismissed with costs to the appellant/respondent in the sum of $2500.00.

Reason:

- The Court noted that even at the time of hearing, no application for extension of time or relief from sanction had been made. There was accordingly no application upon which the Court could make an order.
1. There was no appeal as of right because the appeal was in respect of a procedural decision and not a final decision. The Court has previously held that matters which are imminently procedural are not suitable for appeal to the Privy Council. See Nam Tai Electronics British Virgin Islands Civil Appeal No. 12 of 2003 and Pacific Electric v Texan Management British Virgin Islands Civil Appeal No. 19 of 2006.

2. Under section 108(2)(a) of the Constitution, a decision in any civil proceeding may be appealed where it is of great general public importance. It was held in Martinus Francois v The Attorney General that leave will only be granted where a difficult or serious issue of law is involved. There was no complex issue of law raised in the instant case. The Appellant merely failed to take steps which were required simpliciter. The Application is therefore fatally flawed.
3. R4 of the Appeals to Privy Council Rules provides that application to be made by motion or petition. The applicant however made the application by Form 6 of the Civil Procedure Rules 2000.
